VOLUME 59 NO. 2 FEBRUARY 2011

INAUGURATION DAY 2011

Commissioner John McMillan comes to the Department of Agriculture & Industries with a legacy of perseverance and purpose. For six generations, his family has worked the land and enjoyed the natural resources of Alabama.

His longstanding commitment to public service, preserving the environment, and economic development make him a natural fit for the challenges he will embrace as the department's new commissioner for the next four years.

McMillan grew up in Baldwin County in the same house in Stockton where his almost 99 year-old mother, Madie, still lives surrounded by family. After attending Stockton School and Baldwin County High School, McMillan attended Rhodes College where he earned a BA in economics. He met his wife Kathryn in high school and they celebrated their 44th wedding anniversary this past July.

His interest in agriculture began at a young age while working on his uncle's farm and in his father's sawmill. After college, he continued to work at the family sawmill for nearly 20 years. Over the years, McMillan's life's work continued to focus on agri-business, forest products, wildlife protection, natural resource management and the protection of private property rights.

His first venture into public service was in 1969 when Governor Albert Brewer appointed him to a vacancy on the Baldwin County Commission. He fell in love with public service and decided to run for State Representative in 1974. After being elected that year

McMILLAN'S MESSAGE

*Commissioner
John McMillan*

Public service has long been a passion of mine and I am honored to serve as your new State Commissioner of Agriculture and Industries. I promise to try to live up to your expectations and will work hard to help protect Alabama's farmers, producers, and consumers.

I am so proud to be a part of the new "Team of Leaders" in Alabama who are choosing to try to make the lives of our citizens better. At the Inauguration Day ceremony, I took an oath to execute the office to the best of my ability. This is a critical time in our state's economy and I accept this responsibility with great regard for the people of Alabama. My goal is to find ways to promote agriculture and secure its future while finding new ways to enable our farmers and agribusinesses to not only survive in this economy, but to expand and thrive.

The future of agriculture and industry in Alabama is capturing the enthusiasm of our youth. Our job as parents, employers, mentors, and friends is to inspire children to get involved and pursue the noble vocation of agriculture where the talents and hard work of so many are needed. As you know, agriculture touches everyone's lives. There are so many other areas that agriculture touches and educating our youth and encouraging them to enter the agricultural field in some capacity will be a top priority of my administration.

Farming can be a hard way of life, but it can also be rewarding in so many ways. It is extremely important for us to keep our families healthy and safe by continuing to be able to grow an abundance of food, producing our own fuel, and protecting our food and water supplies from disease or contamination.

MCMILLAN ADVISES PUBLIC TO REPORT WILD BIRD DIE-OFFS TO APPROPRIATE AGENCIES

Agriculture & Industries Commissioner John McMillan is advising the public to report any large scale wild bird die-offs in their area to the appropriate agencies. There have been two wild bird die-offs reported in Alabama since December 12, 2010; one in Limestone County and one in Jackson County. Samples from the clusters of the dead birds will be tested at the State Diagnostic Lab in Auburn, Alabama in an attempt to determine the cause of death. Test results will not be available until approximately the first of February.

"At this time, these reported deaths are not considered a public health threat," stated McMillan. "We are advising the public to take the normal precautions they would take if they encounter a dead wild animal or bird."

The public is urged to avoid or limit any contact with any dead wild animal. If you must handle or move one, wear gloves, but calling a wildlife agency is preferred.

To report any large scale (about 50 or more) wild bird die-offs in your area and to arrange transportation of the dead birds to a diagnostic laboratory for testing, please contact any of the following agencies:

and re-elected in 1978, he was able to serve on the State Administration Committee and chaired the Agriculture, Forestry and Natural Resources Committee. While in the legislature, McMillan was twice chosen as the "Conservation Legislator of the Year."

In 1980, Governor Fob James appointed McMillan as Commissioner of the Alabama Department of Conservation and Natural Resources. Some of his accomplishments include being able to play a major role in rebuilding Gulf State Park after Hurricane Frederick, passing legislation to protect Alabama's wildlife and fisheries resources, and being responsible for the $449 million dollar offshore oil and gas leases which led to the establishment of the Alabama Trust Fund.

In 1983, McMillan was given the opportunity to work for the Alabama Forestry Association and in 1986 was selected to direct the association as its Executive Vice President for the next 20 years. There, he became known as a protector of landowners' property rights and a champion against property tax increases.

During his career McMillan has stayed active in community improvement and development at local, state and national levels. He has had the opportunity to chair the Alabama Forestry Council, the Alabama Forestry Planning Committee, the Alabama Council of Association Executives and the Alabama Civil Justice Reform Committee.

He was also a member of the National Federation of Independent Business, Alabama Farmers Federation, Business Council of Alabama, North Baldwin Chamber of Commerce, Society of American Foresters, Alabama Wildlife Federation, Ducks Unlimited, National Wild Turkey Federation, Montgomery Rotary Club, American Society of Association Executives, and the Auburn University President's Commission on Agriculture.

McMillan has also served as Chairman of the North Baldwin United Way and President of the Bay Minette Area Chamber of Commerce and the Bay Minette Kiwanis Club.

Besides an enthusiasm for community and public service, McMillan loves all types of hunting, fishing and enjoying nature. He and Kathryn have two sons, Murphy and William, and a daughter-in-law Beth. Murphy and Beth are the parents of their two grandchildren, El, 11 and Little John, 6.

Producer Payments to Promote Bioenergy Production

USDA Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack recently announced new investments in 33 states to support the production and usage of advanced biofuels. Vilsack highlighted these projects as ways the Obama Administration is working to reduce the nation's dependence on foreign oil by creating alternative energy sources and promoting economic development and job creation.

"The Obama Administration is working aggressively to bring greater energy independence to all of America by promoting the production of renewable energy in rural communities," said Vilsack. "This funding will help the nation's advanced biofuel industry produce more fuel from sustainable rural resources, and in doing so create jobs, a new revenue stream for agriculture producers and stimulate rural economies across the nation.

Authorized under Section 9005 of the Farm Bill, the Bioenergy Program for Advanced Biofuels authorizes payments to eligible producers to expand production of advanced biofuels. Payments are based on the amount of advanced biofuels a recipient produces from renewable biomass, other than corn kernel starch. Eligible examples include biofuels derived from cellulose, crop residue, animal, food and yard waste material, biogas (landfill and sewage waste treatment gas), vegetable oil and animal fat. To find out more about the program please log onto www.rurdev.usda.gov/BCP\_Biofuels.html.

The producer payments are intended to provide a financial incentive to biorefineries - a necessary step towards meeting the nation's renewable energy needs. Several biofuels producers across the nation have received funding under USDA's Bioenergy Program for Advanced Biofuels. Greenlight Biofuels, LLC located in Huntsville, Alabama will receive $13,211.40.
